From the Connecticut Courant.

THE BRIEF REMARKER.

The commerce of neighbourly social life is carried on chiefly with small change. Vast favours are seldom bestowed, and heavy obligations are seldom incurred. It is the constant interchange of little obliging attentions, that constitutes connubial happiness. It springs from an uninterrupted series of little acts of mutual kindness, light as air of themselves, and costing little or nothing, but of immeasurable importance in their consequences; as they furnish the only kind of food that will long sustain that delicate kind of friendship: for the absence of these small attentions occasions first coldness then distrust, and finally alienation. Setting aside the brutish & the dissolute part of community, wives and husbands disagree oftener by much about trifles, than about things of real weight. Perhaps nine in ten of their disputes and squabbles grow out of little things, such as trivial neglects, petty trespasses or a word unkindly spoken; nay merely a hard look, sometimes lays the foundation of a hard quarrel. A husband never can please his wife any longer than his general conduct evinces that he is, in most respects, well pleased with her; and so vice versa.

If we extend our view to the larger circle of social intercourse which comprehends relations, friend and acquaintance of every kind and degree, we shall find that the frequent interchange of courteous attentions and petty kindnesses, is the thing that keeps them united together and pleased with each other; and that in default of this, they presently lose all relish for one another's company. The truth is, as our tempers are oftener ruffled by trifles than by things of moment, so, on the other hand, our affections are more won by a long series of trivial obligations, than by one single obligation, however great.

Man, put him where you will, is a proud hearted little animal. And hence we become attached to those who are in the habit of treating us as if they thought us worthy of their particular notice and regard, and at the same time cold and secretly resentful towards such as habitually neglect us in these little points; even though the former never have done us a single important favour, and the latter, in some one instance or other, have essentially befriended us.

With regard to neglects and trespasses in those little things which constitute the main substance of social life, the worst of it is, that they are incapable of free discussion; and, of course, the wounds from them admit of no healing. We are deeply touched with omissions or slights, for which it would be ridiculous to expostulate or complain. They leave a sting which secretly rankles in our memories and festers in our imaginations; and inwardly we feel sore, while we are ashamed to fret outwardly: the cause of our provocation being an undefinable nameless something, upon which we never can ask for an explanation, and consequently never can obtain any satisfaction.

True enough, all this is often ill grounded, or the offspring of mere jealousy. But this makes the case the more remediless: for ill grounded enmities are the most obstinate; because, as their causes exists altogether or chiefly in the imagination, the imagination is ever busy in colouring, and magnifying them; whereas when the offence, though real, is of a definite form and shape, it may be got over. I have seen two friends dispute and quarrel violently about an affair of moment, and then settle it, and presently become as kind and loving together as ever; and I have seen other two friends, who never quarreled together at all, become first cold, and at last utterly estranged, by reason of neglect or slight, on the one side or the other, which, of itself, was too trivial to be so much as mentioned to the offending party.

There are those who are willing to oblige, but are unwilling to receive obligations, though never so small, in any way or in any thing; and they boast of as a noble quality in them. But whatever they may think of it themselves, they, in this respect, violate the general law of social commerce, which requires some degree of reciprocity, or a mutual exchange of commodities. One who is in the way of often receiving from another, little kindnesses which he is permitted in no wise to requite, sinks into a dependent; and his nominal friend is not indeed a friend, properly speaking, but a patron. The shew of utter averseness to being obliged in any case whatsoever, is commonly understood as a right, it is taken for pride, or contempt, or coldness, and naturally gives displeasure, whereas to accept of little obligations with frankness, and to be alike willing to oblige and to be obliged, is the proper line of social intercourse.

I will only remark further, that the little daily attentions upon which social feeling and happiness so much depend, ought to be natural or spontaneous, and not loaded and stiffened with ceremony, and that the only way to make them quite natural or spontaneous, is to have written upon the heart that first of social laws, thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

ORIGIN OF THE GREY MARE'S BEING THE BETTER HORSE.

I had lately the pleasure of passing a very agreeable evening in a mixed company with both sexes, where the conversation happened to turn upon the propriety of that power which men usually arrogate to themselves of ruling over their wives with despotic sway: a young lady of wit and humor, replied, "it might possibly be so sometimes; but much oftener the grey mare is the better horse!" And very obligingly entertained the company with the following account of the rise of that proverbial saying, which is made use of when a woman governs her husband.

A gentleman of a certain county in England, having married a young lady of considerable fortune, and with many other charms, yet finding, in a very short time, that she was of a high, domineering spirit, and always contending to be mistress of him and his family, he was resolved to part with her. Accordingly, he went to her father, and told him, he found his daughter of such a temper, and was so heartily tired of her, that if he would take her home again he would return every penny of her fortune.

The old gentleman having inquired into the cause of his complaint, asked him, "why he should be more disquieted at it than any other married man, since it was the common case with them all, and consequently no more than he ought to have expected when he entered into the marriage state?" The young gentleman desired to be excused, if he said he was so far from giving his assent to this assertion, that he thought himself more unhappy than any other man, as his wife had a spirit no way to be quelled, and as most certainly no man, who has a sense of right and wrong, could ever submit to be governed by his wife. "So," said the old man, you are but little acquainted with the world, if you do not know that all women govern their husbands, though not all, indeed, by the same method—however, to put an end to all disputes between us, I will put what I have said on this to proof, if you are willing to try it. I have five horses in my stable; you shall harness these to a cart, in which I shall put a basket containing one hundred eggs; and if in passing through the country, and making a strict inquiry into the truth or falsehood of my assertion, and leaving a horse at the house of every man who is master of his family himself, and an egg only where his wife governs, you will find your eggs gone before your horses, I hope you will then think your case not uncommon, but will be contented to go home, and look upon your own wife as no worse than her neighbours. If, on the other hand, your horses are gone first, I will take my daughter home again, and you shall keep her for ever."

This proposal was too advantageous to be rejected. Our young married man, therefore, sat out with great eagerness to get rid as he thought, of his horses and his wife. At the first house he came to, he heard a woman, with a surly and angry voice, call her husband to go to the door. Here he left an egg, you may be sure, without making any further inquiry; at the next, he met with something of the same kind and at every house, in short, until his eggs were almost gone, when he arrived at the seat of a gentleman of family and figure in the country; he knocked at the door, and inquiring for the master of the house, was told by a servant that his master was not yet stirring, but, if he pleased to walk in, his lady was in the parlour. The lady with complaisance, desired him to seat himself, and said, if his business was very urgent, she would awake her husband, to let him know it, but had much rather not disturb him. "Why, really madam, said he, my business is only to ask a question, which you can resolve as your husband, if you will be ingenious with me: you will doubtless, think it odd, and it may be deemed impolite for any one, much more a stranger, to ask such a question, but a very considerable wager depends upon it, and it may be some advantage to yourself to declare the truth to me. I hope these considerations will plead my excuse. It is, madam, to desire to be informed, whether you govern your husband, or he rules over you?" "Indeed, sir, replied the lady, your question is somewhat odd; but as I think no one ought to be ashamed of doing their duty, I shall make no scruple to say, that I have been always proud to obey my husband in all things; but, if a woman's own word is to be suspected in such a case, let him answer, for here he comes."

The gentlemen at that moment entered the room and after some apologies, being made acquainted with the business confirmed every word his obedient wife had reported in her own favour upon which he was invited to choose which horse in the team he liked best, and to except of it as a present. A black gelding struck the fancy of the gentlemen most, but the lady desired he would choose the grey mare, which she thought would be very fit for her side saddle. Her husband gave substantial reasons why the black horse would be most useful to them; but madam still persisted in her claim to the grey mare. "What," said she, and will you not take her then? but I say you shall; for I am sure the grey mare is much the better horse." "Well, my dear," replied the husband, if it must be so—"You must take an egg."

replied the gentleman car er, and I take all my horses back again, and your to live happy with my wife."

Assistance in cases generally known by the name of

HARD HEARING.

Mr. Painter,

For some years past I have been much of my time in trying to give relief to those who are so unfortunately as to labor under this affliction. Times success did partially crown my deavours and at other times disappointment was the result of all my labors.

For some purpose inscrutable to Providence has annexed to every one of its attendant good, and every one of its annoying remedy. Knowing this, and knowing that the Giver of all things has permitted a remedy to grow—I considered it a duty which I owed to myself to find out this remedy—but as I was disposed toward my suffering fellow creatures, I considered it a duty which I owed to them also.

At length my friends, permit me to say of the opinion, that I have been successful, as much if not more than any other man, yet.

Heretofore people put into the hands what was recommended to help, but they were in the habit of doing so.

This was wrong.

This made them worse.

The ears are too tender to bear it.

Now I—It is somewhat singular, the remedy which I have discovered, may not be put into the ears—but instead of being used in the ears, must be used quite a different way.

The remedy gives help—except to quite old people—who begin to lose their eye sight as well as hearing. To all others, it has as yet seldom failed restoring, that great blessing, of which they have been deprived.

The remedy, with directions can be sent to the patient, by post or otherwise, to any place however distant, and at the same time, no doubt it will be satisfactory to know, that those who use it follow their daily business and eat and drink whatever tastes best to them.

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 21.

Presidential, what shall I call it?—I declare I was most sadly puzzled the whole of yesterday to find a head for a little paragraph which I was cogitating with reference to Mr. Monroe and our republican electoral ticket. A President is to be made; but what shall we call the process? Not an election! for the people have nothing to do with it, and the electors have nothing to do with it. One half of the republicans and all the federalists are against the man; but the caucus have said "it shall be so," and it must be so. Well, it can't be called a contest; for there is no opposition; nor a struggle; for there is no difficulty in the thing—it is managed as nicely as clock work.

Can we call it a choice? No! unless it be one of Hobson's, for it is "take him or none." At length I thought I had hit it! Ah! he says I to myself, it is a Presidential race, in which all the subscribers but one, to the purse pay forfeit, and he wins by walking over the course. But alas! when I reflected upon what delicate ground I advanced when I spoke of racing to any of our worthy rulers, I dropped the subject in despair; and for want of a captain held my peace.

It was some what singular, however, I thought, that a man should get to be president, without being approved of by his own side, after having forfeited the confidence of two administrations, and yet without the opposition of a name! But I remembered that Maximin got to be emperor by trotting all day after the king's chariot—and made no more about the matter.

Important Letter.—In our last we mentioned that the government of Canada had just issued an order prohibiting the importation of flour, beef, pork, &c. The following letter contains an official announcement of the fact to our collector of the customs at Ogdensburgh:—

New-York paper.

Custom-House, Coteau-du-Lac
25d September, 1816.

Sir,
I beg leave to acquaint you, that I have just received a letter from his Excellency the Governor in Chief, saying that he is pleased to cancel and withdraw the instructions which were conveyed on the 1st April last, authorising the importation into Lower Canada from the United States, of flour, Indian meal, beef and pork, fresh and salted, and lard.

You will therefore please convey this intelligence to the several principal officers of the United States customs along the line, for their government.

I have the honor to be, &c.
A. WILSON, Collector.
To A. Richards, Esq. Collector of the Customs—Ogdensburgh.

Geneva, Oct. 9.
Postscript.—By the politeness of a gentleman of this village we were favored last evening with the following circular. To the merchants in this part of the country it will be particularly important, as it may be the means of preventing their incurring heavy losses by buying up those articles which are prohibited.

Montreal, Sept. 30, 1816.
Sir—Annexed we hand you a copy of an order from the custom-house at St. Johns, whereby it will be seen that the following articles will not be permitted at that port, for the time being: flour, beef, and pork, fresh and salt, Indian meal and lard. Whether similar orders have been made at Coteau-du-Lac and Chateaugay, and what authority this order is made, we have not been enabled to ascertain; but indulge the opinion of its being of short duration.

We do not feel competent, nor are we authorized, to hazard speculative opinions on the propriety or impropriety of measures adopted by government; at the same time we sincerely regret this order, as tending to disappoint many of our mercantile friends in your country, who have already made arrangements to forward their produce to this market, and in a particular manner as being injurious to this country generally.

As our information, as stated above, is not satisfactory, as to the duration or authority of this order, we shall not relax our exertions, till we obtain all the necessary information on the subject, to determine to what degree it extends, or affects the importation of produce from your country, and will then give you a more satisfactory and clear statement of its tendency. Our market has experienced but very little alteration for American produce since our last respects. Ashes are in demand at 43s. Butter is now held at 1s. 4d. a lb. Pork 32s for prime, and 26s for American mess; prime Irish, however, is selling by auction at $18 a $19. Beef not in demand, the last sales were at $5.50. Lard, 11d. a lb. not in demand. Flour continues to sell slowly at 60s. a 65s. and the quantity in this market does not exceed one thousand barrels.

Exchange on London, 6 to 7 1-2 premium; on New-York, 1 to 1 1-2 premium; on Boston, 2 to 3 premium.

Yours, &c.
Lester Taylor & Co.

ORDER.

St. Johns, Sept. 26, 1816.

"After this date, all the following articles will not be permitted to be imported from the United States, viz. flour, beef, and pork, fresh and salt, Indian meal and lard. Which prohibition will remain in force, until orders are received at this office for its suspension."

NORTHERN & EASTERN CROPS.

The excessive drought and repeated frosts, in this section, during the past season threaten very short crops, and a scarcity approaching to famine. We fear that the poor will suffer dreadfully. High prices and little employment afford but cheerless prospects of winter's comfort. The effect will not be confined to the country. It will soon reach the city, and be felt in all its severity. One penny saved this fall will be worth three in January. Let the rich retrench and the poor be frugal, industrious and careful. Drink, strong drink is the grand vice of this country; and that man would be author of a second independence, not less glorious than the first, who could devise a plan for saving to the nation the millions which are dissipated in the bowl of intoxication, and thus lost—absolutely lost—and worse than lost. Health, morals, religion are sacrificed at the "worm of the still." Is this to be endured for ever? Is there a hand that can prevent our perverse race from destroying their comforts in this world and their happiness in the next? At any rate, we wish the drinkers to bear one thing in mind, and steadily if possible. Multitudes of those who indulge in drinking now, will have to abstain from eating in winter.

From the Easton Star.

Relief for a short crop of Corn.—Travelling lately through the country, I have discovered, and from the information of others, am satisfied, that the crops of corn now growing will be much shorter than the late ones. As a relief to the poor, and indeed to the rich, I am induced to lay before the community a certain remedy for the saving of thousands and tens of thousands barrels of corn, that every year are unnecessarily wasted in feeding of the numerous horses and work cattle that are annually used by the farmers of our country. The saving alluded to is not a speculative opinion, but is the result of my experience during the present year; and with me and my posterity to the end of time, even if corn were at half a crown the bushel, the present mode of feeding should continue.

I have more than 20 horses, including old and young, and a work oxen, on my dwelling plantation, and since Christ-mas not one bushel of corn have they ate, unless by my 3 road horses. Many of my neighbors will tell you that my horses never looked so well; and I positively assert that never since I have been a farmer did my stock of horses and cattle do their labor with so much ease to themselves, and pleasure to me, as they now do. A doubt last fall whether I should have corn enough for my own consumption, gave me the opportunity herein related, and a salutary and profitable one I have found it. It enabled me to sell several hundred barrels of corn.

My fodder I carefully saved, and had it cured as green as the corn would allow; this was the food that my horses were fed with. I had it cut pretty fine in a common chopping box, filled a large trough with it, and over it sprinkled some water, and a small quantity of bran or shorts, they devoured with more voraciousness than I have ever witnessed in horses at their food. I fed at the but ends would sometimes be left, when I had it taken out every night and morning, and given to the work cattle and milk cows, which would leave their other food of hay, hucks or straw, to fight for this. Will you believe me, when I assure you, that at my dwelling plantation we cultivate 350,000 corn hills, (about 180 acres) the tops of which were entirely fed away in the above manner, not one useful being used in the common wasteful mode. The blades of my corn were principally used in the same way. I had as good a crop of clover and timothy hay as ever went into a horse rack, yet so much did my horses prefer the chop stuff, that the racks were seldom empty, not oftener than once and at most twice a week.

Some will ask, where are we all to get bran or shorts? I will tell you how I got enough to last my horses from Christmas until my hushing for fallow will be completed. Last winter I had about a thousand bushels of old indifferent wheat of the last year's crop, which I had manufactured into flour and sold, the bran and shorts of which have lasted me ever since, and are not used. This plan I shall adopt so long as I live, unless I can make annual contracts for a supply, on suitable terms: in doing which there will perhaps be but little difficulty. But those who do not like that trouble, or to whom it may be inconvenient, have always a remedy at hand, and by the use of a better substitute. You can have meal, and one quart is sufficiency for one horse for the day and night, which is certainly much cheaper than twenty ears of corn for your horse per day when idle, and the double of it when working. The great advantage in the top fodder is the sweet juices it contains, and which when chopped up, wet and sprinkled with the oil of wheat, or with meal, keeps your horse in good health, and full, gives his hair a good complexion, and keeps his skin loose. It multiplies the litter of your stable several fold.

Now is the time to save your fodder; if from want of labor you are unable as often happens to save both tops and blades without injury on the one or the other, let the blades be lost, or injured; for there is no comparison in value between them, the tops being the most nutritious. So confident am I of the very great importance of the top fodder, that I believe it, alone, and without mixture, except with a little water, will sustain a horse, or fatten a bullock, better than the usual mode of corn, &c. There is in practice, and has been ever since the settlement of the country, a most wasteful method of feeding work-oxen with corn, of which they consume an immense quantity. This is bad economy, as well as injurious to this useful animal; for when they are fed with corn, it passes through them, one half of it at least undigested; the cause is, that they have not long feed enough in them to arrest the corn in its passage, until it performs its intended purposes. Nor can you prevent it, while you keep up the corn feeding system. Work cattle, or fattening cattle, ought to feed on nothing but hay, or chopped fodder; or, if you wish them to have grain, it should be made fine and mingled with their drink. This will aid very much to their fattening, and a quart per day is enough. But if you feed them on corn, they will eat your hay very limited indeed, be it ever so good; cattle, if fed with the butcher's, or work steers, must be kept full of something, and corn will not fill them, though they eat until they leave at every meal. Horses are very much of the same nature.

If the above advice is pursued, thousands of farmers who anticipate purchasing of corn will have an abundance of hundreds who think that perhaps with close feeding, &c. they will have enough to supply them, may sell more than half, two thirds, of their crops; and those who think they shall have a few barrels to sell may double, treble, perhaps quadruple their quantity, by which the markets will be kept fully supplied, and the purchasers will have it at a fair price that will no longer oppress them.

JACOB GIBSON.

Marengo, M. D. Sept. 22.
N. B. On my dwelling plantation I have but twelve work horses; they have cultivated for me about 350,000 corn hills, about 180 acres; they have trod out 2000 bushels of wheat and have husked me about 300 acres of fallow, of which they will do the seeding, and all this work without corn. In cleaning up my corn house I shall clean the shattered corn and make meal of it to complete my feeding for the year; I am, and have been for some time, chopping my green tops and feeding with them. I beg you all to try the experiment immediately, and test its truth. I shall make 12 or 1400 barrels of corn, 200 of which will supply my wants for the whole concern, as we shall feed with corn nothing but the families and hogs.

From the Boston Palladium.

Mr. Fales, of Wrentham, who left this port in May 1809, in the ship O'Gair, equipped home on Tuesday last. He came passenger in the Governor Strong, arrived at New-York, and has obligingly communicated to us the following interesting information:—Left Wrentham, Sandwich Islands, about first of January, and Oranienburg, Feb. 12. Ship Hamilton, Martin, which sailed from this port June 14, 1815, arrived at Wrentham 19th of November, remained about 8 weeks and proceeded for the N. W. Coast, 8 days previous, in co with the Cossack, Brown, from Boston for do. The latter arrived about a week previous to the H.—The carpenter of the Cossack was unwell and remained behind. He was getting better last accounts. Ship Enterprise, from N. York, had also arrived at the Islands some time after the two former, and proceeded for the coast in February from Oranienburg. She parted her cables while lying at anchor in Wymore Bay, and would probably have gone ashore, had not the king sent her off an anchor which had belonged to the Atahualpa. The Pedlar, from N. York, sailed from Canton April 4, in co with the Isabella, for Holland. The P. had left at Norfolk Sound, the O'Gair, M'Neal, of this port, repairing—she was expected at the Sandwich Islands about first of July, on her way to Canton. In the Pedlar took passage, Messrs. J. B. Whiting, N. Stow, Cephus Parker, and W. Babcock, all of this town. In the Isabella, Mr. Wm. A. G. Gale, of ditto, and Mr. Guy Caldwell, of Worcester. In the Trumbull, which sailed for Providence about 13th of April, went passenger, Mr. Edward Jackson of Boston. Several other passengers in the above vessels, names not recollected. The American schooner Lydia, Guisley, had left Norfolk Sound previous to the sailing of the Pedlar, bound to the Marquesa Islands. Captain Bennett, who left this port in the Derby, was at Canton May 15.

Mr. Fales arrived at Canton April 4, in the Milwood, of N. York, which vessel had a passage of 50 days from the Islands, and brought part of a cargo of sandal wood. An English brig, which had been trading on the coast of Peru

Mr. Fales, of this town, who left Norfolk Sound, California, etc. in the Atahualpa, and arrived at the Sandwich Islands in her, had reached Canton in the Beverly, on his way home—the Beverly had only 28 days passage from the Islands.

A letter was brought by Mr. Fales from a person on board the Hamilton, dated at Wrentham, November 25, 1815, but it gives no particulars respecting the ship on her passage out.

British schooner Columbia, which left England as a letter of marque during the war, sailed from Canton a few days before the Governor Strong, for Columbia river. Ship Lilly Bird, of this port, was at Canton.

Lydia, which sailed from Canton to carry the official news of Peace, arrived at Norfolk Sound in Oct. last, 70 days passage, without stopping. The Cossack arrived at the Sandwich Islands in Nov. and brought the first news of Peace there. She left this port May 4, but stopped on the Brazil coast.

We have had a cursory view of a file of Paris papers, to the 31st of August, containing London dates to the 27th. Three per cent. Consols were at 62. The British Parliament had been further prorogued to the 4th of November.

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

SPECIALTY, TWO STORES,
Have just received from LEAS PA
MIDLAND STORE, No. 45
Maiden Lane, N. York.
SPRING SUPPLY
Of the following genuine Medicines.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended.

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills.

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern & Middle States, particularly in N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons at each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It is not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age. They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which is so often fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long Voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is also mild in its operation, cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz: The Terebra, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tenuia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yds long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat of convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & foetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and is resorted to by health and strength a great number, when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment to such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.
